CUSTOM SHOP ACOUSTIC GUITARS

60th Anniversary

(Natural)

The Guild Custom Shop's first creation is the 60th Anniversary model—a limited-edition run of 60 finely appointed acoustic guitars designed in celebration of Guild's 2013 diamond anniversary. Based on the venerable Guild F-30 orchestra model, it has a beautiful 5A koa top, back and sides; red spruce bracing; an elegant mother-of-pearl rosette; abalone top purfling; rosewood body and neck binding; and a genuine diamond headstock inlay. Its rich and articulate tone is as stunning as its appearance.

The guitar's three-piece mahogany/walnut/mahogany neck has a 20-fret ebony fingerboard with bone nut and 12" radius, and mother-of-pearl/abalone inlays with Guild's 60th anniversary logo inlaid at 12th fret. Other premium features include an ebony bridge with bone "Parisian eye" pins, gold Waverly tuners with rosewood buttons, gold hardware, and a natural nitrocellulose lacquer finish. Orpheum™ 12-Fret Slope-Shoulder Dreadnought

The Benefits of Red Spruce

Many Guild models have red spruce tops, and all U.S.-made Guild guitars have red spruce bracing. Red spruce (also commonly known as Adirondack spruce) is relatively rare, with characteristics that clearly distinguish it from other spruce varieties.

Chiefly, red spruce has a greater strength-to-weight ratio than most other spruce types. That essentially means that it's physically stronger than other spruce varieties, and it lets Guild build lighter guitar tops. This means more pronounced top flexibility, and it produces greater dynamic range—more volume and headroom when a player really digs in. Consequently, when players ask for an instrument with a little extra, a guitar with a red spruce top and bracing is therefore worth considering.
