CUSTOM SHOP ACOUSTIC GUITARS

Orpheum® 12-Fret Slope-Shoulder Dreadnought

(Sunburst)

The Guild® Custom Shop presents the beautifully crafted and rich-sounding Orpheum® series “Slope 12” dreadnought acoustic. U.S.-built by the talented luthiers of the Guild® Custom Shop in scenic New Hartford, Conn., Orpheum® series models are designed to stylishly evoke the bygone 1930s-era golden age of U.S. acoustic guitar design and construction. Indeed, you could say that Orpheum® models are finely crafted Guild® guitars that never were but could have been.

The Slope 12 offers a distinctive difference for the discerning player—sloping shoulders that gracefully curve away from the neck in marked contrast to conventional straight-shoulder dreadnought design. Further, its three-piece mahogany/rosewood/mahogany neck joins the body at the 12th fret, contributing to an abundantly complex yet warm and balanced tone that makes it ideal for flat picking and finger-style playing.

Premium features also include an Adirondack red spruce top with scalloped red spruce bracing, solid mahogany back and sides, traditional hot hide-glue construction, soft-“V” neck profile, 20-fret ebony fingerboard with pearl-dot inlays and 12” radius, bone nut, elegant cream body binding, and a nitrocellulose lacquer neck finish. Other features include a tortoiseshell pickguard, pyramid-style ebony bridge with bone saddle and pins, Guild®-logo Gotoh® SE-700 open-back tuners with cream buttons, and deluxe hard-shell case. Available in Natural and Sunburst nitrocellulose lacquer finishes.

Doyle Dykes Signature Rosewood

(Natural)

The Guild® Doyle Dykes Signature Model is the result of extensive collaboration among Dykes, master luthier Ren Ferguson and the team at Guild's New Hartford, Conn., factory. Crafted to Dykes' exacting specifications, the cutaway grand orchestra guitar delivers a rich, full and balanced sound that will please the most discerning guitarist. It's an incredibly articulate instrument, with truly stunning headroom and dynamic range.

With an abalone-trimmed AAA-grade red spruce top and Indian rosewood back and sides, the guitar looks as amazing as it sounds. The dark-tinted top imparts an aged look, and the 20-fret ebony fingerboard and abalone-inlaid bridge contribute to a distinctively elegant appearance.

Other special features include custom D-55-style abalone/mother-of-pearl fret markers rotated 90 degrees and located on the bass side of the fingerboard, a slightly shallower body than that of the standard F-47 on which the model is based, scalloped red spruce bracing, abalone rosette, three-piece mahogany neck with rosewood center, 12" fingerboard radius, stylized Guild "G" headstock overlay, extra tuner spacing to accommodate Dykes' signature behind-the-nut string bends, bone nut and saddle, and a pure gloss nitrocellulose lacquer finish.

TRADITIONAL SERIES OPTIONS AND INFORMATION

D-TAR® Pickup System - MSRP $350

The D-TAR® Multi-Source Pickup System is available as an option in Guild Traditional Series acoustic guitars. To order, replace the "0" in the seventh digit of the part number with a "7." For example, #3856300821 D-40 Bluegrass Jubilee Natural becomes #3856307821 with D-TAR. (General D-TAR part number listed as 385-xxx7-xxx).

The Benefits of Red Spruce

Many Guild models have red spruce tops, and all U.S.-made Guild guitars have red spruce bracing. Red spruce (also commonly known as Adirondack spruce) is relatively rare, with characteristics that clearly distinguish it from other spruce varieties.

Chiefly, red spruce has a greater strength-to-weight ratio than most other spruce types. That essentially means that it's physically stronger than other spruce varieties, and it lets Guild build lighter guitar tops. This means more pronounced top flexibility, and it produces greater dynamic range—more volume and headroom when a player really digs in. Consequently, when players ask for an instrument with a little extra, a guitar with a red spruce top and bracing is therefore worth considering.
